English

These terms cover public reading, company and research-product information, and related account features on the MVS website. Online purchases, paid subscriptions and automatic renewals are currently unavailable.

Website operator and data collector

This website is operated by 麥斯管理顧問有限公司 (Maxwell Venture Service LLC), Taiwan Unified Business Number 42629242. Registered address: 臺北市大同區太原路50號2樓 (2F., No. 50, Taiyuan Rd., Datong Dist., Taipei City, Taiwan). Contact maxwell@maxwellvs.com for documents, personal data and services.

1. Accounts and security

Members must use social accounts they control and keep contact details accurate. Paid access may not be shared, bypassed or used to interfere with the service or impersonate others.

Mandatory MFA and liability limitations

MFA cannot be disabled or bypassed while using an account. Users may still delete their own accounts. Deletion ends account access and withdraws all marketing consent; necessary history is retained under the privacy policy and must not be used for marketing. Users must protect their accounts and verification information. See the Cybersecurity, Mandatory MFA and Limitation of Liability Notice. Non-excludable liability and consumer rights remain unaffected.

2. Content licence

Public content is available for browsing and reading; it does not transfer copyright or grant reuse rights. Except as permitted by law or written permission, bulk copying, redistribution, resale and training external models are prohibited. Separately obtained research products and advisory deliverables follow their individual licences or contracts.

3. Research limitations

Content is industry research and general information, not legal, tax, medical or personalised investment advice. Obtain appropriate professional advice and make independent decisions.

4. Inquiries, engagements and service changes

Sending an inquiry does not trigger a charge or establish a paid engagement. Advisory scope, deliverables, fees, taxes and payment arrangements follow the individual contract confirmed by both parties. If website transactions become available, the applicable transaction, payment and refund terms will be published beforehand.

5. Governing rules

These terms are based on the laws of Taiwan and do not exclude mandatory consumer rights in a purchaser’ s location. The English version supports international use; material discrepancies are interpreted reasonably under applicable law and the transaction context.

6. First use, electronic assent and updates

Authenticated features require MFA, review and separate affirmative acceptance of the supplied terms, privacy notice, investment disclosure, security policy and electronic-assent rules, followed by the account holder’ s name and an explicit submission. Access remains blocked if acceptance is missing, outdated or cannot be saved. Material updates require renewed assent from existing members; they do not retroactively alter individual contracts or remove statutory rights.

7. Review, capacity and copies

All documents can be read, downloaded and retained before signing. Users may leave and return; no waiver of a legally required reasonable review opportunity is requested. Account features are for adults aged 18 or over with contractual capacity. Organizational representatives need appropriate authority, and website assent does not replace a separate corporate engagement. Questions or requests for paper handling may be sent to maxwell@maxwellvs.com; public browsing remains available while required arrangements are incomplete.

8. Information quality, AI, models and external content

Research, models, scenarios and AI-assisted material may contain errors, omissions, delays or assumptions unsuitable for a particular purpose. Forecasts, simulations and backtests are not actual performance or promised results; examine sources, dates, assumptions and limitations. External links, videos, quotes, company names and marks do not imply endorsement, partnership or a guarantee. Material errors may be reported for correction. Applicable verification, correction and other duties are not waived.

9. Acceptable use, confidentiality and third-party rights

Do not impersonate others, infringe intellectual property or privacy, distribute unlawful content, access systems without authority, bypass MFA, share accounts, abuse automated extraction or disrupt services. Lawful exceptions and mandatory rights remain. Contributors need necessary rights and authority, and must not use public comments or ordinary inquiries to send passwords, verification codes, material non-public investment information or another person' s sensitive data. Confidential advisory materials require appropriate confidentiality and engagement arrangements.

10. Restrictions, disputes and non-excludable liability

Necessary and proportionate restrictions may address concrete security risks, unlawful acts or contractual breaches, with reasons and recovery or complaint channels where reasonably practicable. Informal discussion does not restrict complaints, litigation, statutory time limits or legally competent courts. Liability depends on applicable law, actual duties, attribution, causation and loss. These terms do not exclude intentional misconduct, gross negligence, mandatory data-protection duties, statutory consumer rights or other non-excludable liability, or shift every burden of proof to users.

Account deletion, retained history and marketing exclusion

After MFA, users may delete their own accounts from Account security without accepting new terms. Confirmation removes the sign-in identity, ends account access, clears nonessential profile fields and retains a historical subject labelled Deleted account. Old sessions cannot continue access; new registrations inherit neither old access nor marketing consent.

Deletion withdraws all marketing consent. Deleted accounts and retained history must not enter campaigns, lists, marketing exports or synchronisations, marketing analytics or advertising audiences. Every marketing workflow must recheck account status and current consent immediately before use; cached lists and historical consent areinsufficient.

Necessary audit, agreement, transaction, entitlement and deletion records are restricted to authorised staff for previously disclosed security, compliance, dispute or rights handling. Existing audit records follow the stated five-year rule and documented holds; other categories follow their applicable purposes and retention periods, not indefinite retention of all personal data. Authorised staff manage expiry and backups through controlled procedures. Account deletion does not automatically cancel separate contracts or complete refunds; contact maxwell@maxwellvs.com.
